Our services include REINS region educational programs and newsletters. Outreach programs are coordinated by 15 multi-county horse educational organizations. Over 150 house education coordinators, over 135 volunteers, and a variety of regional and local county agents are organized regionally. Each of these agents coordinates a horse education program at North Carolina State University and partnering county Extension horse education programs at North Carolina Horse Industry. The program is coordinated by the North Carolina Cooperative Extension system (as established by the state of North Carolina) site organization. The DOHA is committed to providing expert training and resources to horse enthusiasts and new horse owners. Newsletters keep our members informed of events and new horse shows. Monthly meetings are held for members to network and enjoy our equine friends. Many of our members also offer special horse riding events.

DOHA is committed to educating our members.
